SDEA Defeats Anti-Union Legislation

Three bills to limit educators’ ability to bargain and represent their colleagues were defeated during the 2018 Legislative Session. HB 1199 stripped the collective bargaining rights from the faculty at the state’s six public universities and two specialty schools. After hundreds of emails and phone calls to legislators, the State Senate narrowly defeated HB 1199 by a vote of 16–18.

HB 1197 prevented school administrators from entering into collective bargaining agreements with school districts. Sioux Falls and Rapid City have collective bargaining agreements with their principals and other administrators. The House Education Committee sent this bill to the 41st Legislative Day on a vote of 8–6.

The House Education Committee also said no to HB 1198 which would have limited the ability of local association leaders to represent members in the negotiations and grievance process. The committee defeated this bill by a vote of 8–5.

SDEA President Mary McCorkle said the defeat of these three bills in a red-state like South Dakota shows the power of educators when they come together and support one another. “We all worked together to defeat this bill. Now, let’s take what we learned from this and make change happen.”

Micro-Credentials Offer Personalized Learning for Educators

Late in 2017, NEA quietly launched a new professional development platform called micro-credentials. It promises free, personalized learning offered online, and on demand for educators. Using teams of members who worked all summer and fall to create training modules, NEA is now able to offer over 100 micro-credentials with more on the way.

Topics include bullying, English language learners, classroom management, cooperating teacher training, topics aligned to Interstate, standards, teacher leadership, and National Board 5 Core Propositions.

Unlike most professional development where hours or credits are awarded for the amount of seat time, and un-related to the amount of learning, micro-credentials are issued for developing skills and acquiring knowledge to improve classroom practices that support student success.

Quality control has been ensured through partner Digital Promise, a pioneer in micro-credentials. Each micro-credential takes a minimum of 10 hours of work. Submitted work is reviewed by a team of educators who use a rubric for assessment. While an applicant may pass on the first submission, it is more likely that feedback will ask for tweaks, additional research or writing—like work toward an advanced degree.

The journey may not be easy, but it is simple. The applicant will go to nea.certificationbank.com and create an account. S/he will view topics and specific micro-credentials. Each click will reveal the outline of work required for the micro-credential and a rubric for successful completion. Upon choosing the micro-credential sought, the applicant simply clicks “Apply.” From this point, the applicant has a 6-month window to complete the work and upload it for review. Once submitted, there is an unlimited number of chances to amend the work and resubmit until the micro-credential is earned.

SDEA is currently among the first pilot sites in the country. We will be using an online professional learning community format to support another in completion of the first micro-credentials. A 10-hour CEU certificate for each micro-credential completed is available. SDEA is also in the process of seeking approval to offer graduate credits (1 credit for 2 micro-credentials, or 2 credits for 3 micro-credentials). There is limited space available through the end of March for members to join the pilot at https://goo.gl/ZaKYoR. Early adopters of technology are also welcome to strike out on their own any time.

Milken Educator Award Winner
CARLA DIEDE

Transforming curriculum and student futures at South Dakota's Harrisburg South Middle School

Math, this time it’s personal: Innovative teacher Carla Diede earns a $25,000 Milken Educator Award

Students literally flip for Carla Diede’s math classes. That’s because in her “flipped classroom,” students see their lessons online before they show up to class—where they then engage in more active learning. It’s just one of several educational innovations Diede is implementing at South Dakota’s Harrisburg South Middle School where student achievement is growing by leaps and bounds. But it was Diede herself who was jumping for joy this morning at an all-school assembly where she was presented with a Milken Educator Award by Don Kirkegaard, South Dakota Secretary of Education and Greg Gallagher, Milken Family Foundation Senior Program Administrator. The national recognition comes with an unrestricted $25,000 cash prize. Diede is the only Milken Educator Award winner from South Dakota this year, and is among 44 honorees for 2017–18.

The Milken Educator Awards, hailed by Teacher magazine as the “Oscars of Teaching,” has been opening minds and shaping futures for 30 years. Research shows teacher quality is the driving factor behind student growth and achievement. The initiative not only aims to reward great teachers, but to celebrate, elevate and activate these innovators in the classroom who are guiding America’s next generation of leaders. Milken educators believe, “The future belongs to the educated.”

Diede is a classroom innovator, prompting her Harrisburg colleagues, along with teachers from across the school district, to often sit in to observe her cutting-edge methods. She has also shared her rigorous insights, novel learning structures and systems with educators statewide as well as in neighboring Minnesota. Thanks to her innovative data-driven personalized instruction plans, student learning is enhanced by high-expectations, as well as by directed study, with the result being fully engaged staff and enthusiastic students.

“Carla Diede, like all Milken Educators, understands that the path to higher learning is an intensely personal one, and that students must find their way to the truth individually,” said Gallagher. “Making math attainable to all, each in their own way, is how she excels—by helping her students learn in idiiosyncratic and idiomatic ways. Central to her teaching genius is helping students not only to learn new things, but also to learn them in new ways.”

“The Harrisburg School District has been a leader in the school accreditation process, and allows all districts to grant meaningful salary and benefit increases to teachers and education support professionals. Carla just does whatever it takes,” said Harrisburg South Middle School Principal Darren Ellwine. “I’ve worked with her for a number of years, and she has always gone above and beyond for students. She’s passionate about her subject matter and finding the most effective ways to use technology to enhance instruction. She is integral in our personalized learning track for our school and district. She leads professional development and supports all our teachers. I’m thrilled to see her recognized with this award.”

More information about Diede, plus links to photos and a video from the assembly, can be found on the Milken Educator Awards website at http://www.milkeneducatorawards.org/educator/view/Carla-Diede.

- Legislation that supports enhanced compensation systems that are locally bargained, based on multiple measures, resulting in improved instruction and/or effectiveness and encouraging teacher collaboration, not competition or merit pay.
- Providing a negotiated per diem increase in pay for all school employees if there is an increase in the school term.

I can't remember a time when more people were more involved with more legislative issues than this year. Certainly there seem to be many 'threats' this year to education's general interests. By the time this copy of the Advocate hits your mailbox the legislative session, for better or worse, will be over. All SDEA works so hard for education's interests—they are to be thanked and commended.

This year, the Annual Meeting of SDEA-Retired will be held on Friday the 6th of April at RedRossa in one of the rear meeting rooms starting at 2 pm.

Our main presenter will be from NEA's Member Benefits division—in a question/answer format she will show and explain how to get the most from your benefits and suggest ways on how to do it easily.

I have invited our SDEA President, SDEA Executive Director and Staff Coordinator to stop by the meeting as well. After the Retired Annual Meeting you will be able to attend a free supper at RedRossa—one of Pierre's best restaurants. The SDEA Representative Assembly starts Friday evening at the AmericInn on the river in Fort Pierre. Please e-mail me (john.salladay@gmail.com) as soon as possible if you wish to be one of those 25 Retired delegates and if you plan to attend our Annual meeting. Remember, too, if you agree to attend both the Retired Annual Meeting and the SDEA Representative Assembly, you will be eligible to receive a $50 stipend.

Due to a successful NEA grant, we are able to hold three Pre-Retirement Seminars again this Spring. These will be held from 10 am to 2 pm local time on Saturdays in March and April with a lunch provided. Watertown's Ramkota was the site of the first one—Saturday March 3rd. Rapid City's Minervas restaurant is the site of the second—Saturday March 24th. Saturday April 14th is the date for the third one to be held in Sioux Falls, but the meeting site has not yet been finalized. These seminars have received overwhelmingly positive reviews each time they have been held. Presentations cover South Dakota's Retirement System Information; Financial Planning for Retirement; Legal Issues such as Wills, Trusts, Powers of Attorney etc.; and Horace Mann information.

Speaking of our seminars, Loren Paul, our staff coordinator, and I have been asked to present sessions on how we have accomplished these seminars at the National Retired Leadership Conference in Chicago the weekend of March 17 & 18.
